WILMINGTON, N. C.
Tuesday, October 21st, 1873.

A PROCLAMATION.

By the President of the United States of America.

The approaching close of another year brings with it the occasion for renewed thanksgiving and acknowledgment to the Almighty Ruler of the Universe for the unnumbered mercies which He has bestowed upon us.

Abundant harvests have been among the rewards of industry. With local exceptions health has been among the many blessings enjoyed. Tranquility at home and peace with other nations have prevailed. Frugal industry is regaining its merited recognition and its merited rewards.

Gradually, but, under the providence of God, surely, as we trust, the nation is recovering from the lingering results of a dreadful civil strife.

For these and all the other mercies vouchsafed, it becomes us as a people to return heartfelt and grateful acknowledgments to Almighty God for His bounties and His protection, and to offer to Him prayers for their continuance.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 14th day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, and [L.S.] of the independence of the United States the ninety-seventh.

U. S. GRANT.
By the President:
HAMILTON FISH,
Secretary of State.

Religion in Public Schools.

In the Irish Convention at St. Louis, last week, was discussed one of those ponderous questions which has shaken States and Empires. Whether religious instruction shall be taught in the public schools, propounds a question whose answer is perhaps more complicated than any other in the whole subject of education. As an abstraction, it will be readily asserted that as the State is bound to furnish an education to its youth, then it follows that such education shall be of the highest kind. And what is of greater concern than instruction in religious matters? But when we come to settle what shall be the character of the religious instruction taught the young by authority of the State, we find two great divisions of public sentiment. Should the time ever come when it will be really attempted to introduce religious instruction in the schools, dozens of sects will be claiming that their peculiar tenets be the religion taught, as the Catholics are now doing. They are now demanding, and wherever they have been sufficient strong enforcing an education paid for by the State, and yet definitely and denominationally religious. The aspiring spirit of Romanism, which is constantly invading all regions, institutions and governments for the aggrandizement of their church, has so far made it the only religious body which has successfully asserted a right to teach its doctrine by the assistance of the public money.

Another class which desires religious and moral instruction in the public schools, are those who occupy a middle ground. It would secure its object without giving offense to either the Catholic or Protestant divisions of the religious world. This party cannot find a logical basis on which to plant their feet without finding themselves assailed by the Romanists, or by that very numerous class which demands the exclusion of religious teaching of all kinds. Though the question may be asked the Roman Catholic why does he display an interest in the public schools of the United States, when in those countries which, in religion, are predominantly his own, as Spain, Portugal or South America, the people are left in ignorance, yet he evades them by demanding his constitutional rights. Any religious instruction, says the Catholic, which is hostile to his liberty is either directly or indirectly outlawing his opinions. It will be no answer to this assertion to reply that under the present circumstances, all free and common education must be hostile to Romanism. He will answer that the sentiments of the public are wrong and evil, and injuriously affect what he knows to be right.

The difficulties which surround this question are great, yet the demands of the Catholics, and perhaps other religious denominations, are forcing their consideration upon the country. And a careful survey of the whole subject must convince every candid man that if religious instruction is to be permitted in our public schools, (when we get them) it can only be the result of much compromise, that partial interests must yield to what is admitted as nationally predominant, if not universal, in the sphere of morals and religion.

The New York World says that the victory in Ohio is proof that if the Democrats "repudiate compromising alliances, and scorn cowardly coalitions, their unflinching confidence in their own principles inspires respect and wins converts." ("Oh, for an hour of Duffie!" Horace Greeley's pen and voice is silent in the grave, and those who trembled at their power now insult the dead whom they once flattered and afterwards betrayed. Compromising alliances! Time was when the Democrats, quitting their own disorganized ranks, sought an exponent for their principles outside of their party. Covering their tattered banners with the fig leaf of Liberal Republicanism, they sought to impose upon the country with that show of decency. Now that the imposture is discovered, they call their allies and victims by harsh names.

We do not care particularly about the quarrels in the Democratic camp, but we are admirers of faith and consistency.

EDITORIAL BUDGET.

The newly appointed Captain-General of Cuba left Santander, Spain, for Havana, on Thursday. The Government squadron is yet at Gibraltar.

Ardnerskie Castle, England, formerly the residence of the Duke of Abercorn, has been burned. Many works of art, including numerous etchings by Landseer, were lost.

The discovery has just been made at Rome, on the Equiline Hill, of some enormous ancient vessels in potteryware, the largest ever found, and of such a size that a man could easily live in one. The fact is therefore clear that the famous tub of Diogenes was not made of wood, but of earthenware, as is, in fact, implied in the passage of Juvenal.

The people who call themselves Conservatives in Virginia, are forming what they style Kemper-Kampain Clubs. The initials, which they seem fond of using alone in the headings of their advertisements of meetings, are suggestive of the Ku-Klux Klan. These same people are earnestly endeavoring to make the election a contest between the races, and this is also suggestive.

The British dispatch boat from the harbor of Cartagena arrived at Alicante on the evening of the 18th with news that the insurgent frigate Numencia ran into the Fernando el Catolico. Over half of the crew of the latter was drowned. The catastrophe is attributed to the inexperience of the officers. Another version of the affair is current here. It is reported the Numencia fired into and sunk the Fernando el Catolico because she parted company with and refused to obey the signals to rejoin the former.

There was a quiet little election in the town of Bushnell, Ill., a few days ago, to obtain an expression of the wishes of the citizens for or against licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquor, and the Judges decided that as it was desirable to obtain the general sentiment, they would receive the votes of the women also. This being made known, 125 ladies assembled at the Methodist Episcopal Church, and thence marched to the polls and deposited their ballots, unanimously against license. The vote of the town was strong the same way.

Among the matters influencing the selection of candidates for the Massachusetts Legislature is the Hoosac Tunnel. It is expected that this work will be completed before the term of the next Legislature will expire, and it will, therefore, become necessary for that body to take some definite action as to how and in what manner the tunnel shall be used. The Northampton Gazette strongly opposes the granting of the monopoly of this enterprise to certain railroads, and says: "It is of great interest to the prosperity of this section of the State that there should be no consolidation of the tunnel with other roads. It was not the intention of the people that the expensive work undertaken by them should be given away to any line of road, but that it should be kept open for all roads that have a right to make use of it."

Advices from Panama to the 8th instant have been received. On the night of the 23d of September the Corrozo party, which had been lurking some time in the woods some distance from the city, came in and occupied the suburbs, which the Government had left unprotected. They opened fire on the morning of the 24th, and kept it up almost incessantly until the 6th instant, when they retired. While hostilities were going on, General Corrozo arrived from Costa Rica on the 30th ultimo, and having managed to land secretly, at once took direction of the proceedings against the Government of Gen. Neira. He at once announced that Gen. Neira had ceased to be the legitimate president of the State of Panama ever since he was overthrown by the revolution of the 5th of April, which expelled him from the State, and that he (Corrozo) being the first designado appointed to be a substitute in such case, claimed to be the legal president. In the contest both sides were armed with rifles of the most approved pattern. The Government had the advantage of possessing cannon, which have caused great destruction to many valuable houses during the continuance of this contest.

Fortunately Admiral Almy arrived and hoisted his flag on the United States steamer Pensacola. Seeing the unprotected state of transit from the disorderly condition of the city, and there being no national force on the part of Colombia, the Admiral landed one hundred and fifty men at the railroad station, and afterward, at the request of the Government itself, sixty men with their officers in the City Square. The Government, expecting that a General favorable to the rebel party might come over the railroad, sent out a force and demanded that the train should be stopped, and had all the passengers searched. The Admiral, on being informed of this daring attempt on the freedom of the inter-ocean transit, ordered that a guard of United States marines should accompany each train, and shoot down any armed men who should endeavor to interfere with it. The inability of the Government to protect the transit falls forth much comment. It is hoped that Admiral Almy will not give up the possession and protection of the transit until he is sure that it will be no further disturbed. A Constituent Assembly, which was organized to settle matters here, has done little else than to authorize a forced loan of $20,000 on the city and $40,000 on the province. The state of affairs unsettles all business in Panama.

WAIFS.

France has got three million horses left, despite the voracity of the gourmands. There is also a jackass or two remaining.

Chicago papers are making light of a young man who swallowed a bottle of kerosene, mistaking it for cough syrup.

A Connecticut gentleman claims to have discovered a peice of the balloon. He will be promptly bound over to keep the "peace."

Iowa laid the corner-stone of her new Capitol without any speeches. It is an imposing edifice all the same.

Fifty Baptist ministers in Nova Scotia find themselves out of business. All the bluenoses have been under water at some time or other.

Chicago dry goods merchants provide lunches for their customers, thus putting them under polite obligations to strike a bargain.

Here is the latest description of a kiss: "Twas night. A real warm couple stood in the pale, cold moonbeams. Their lips touched, and there was a sound like a cow hauling her hoof out of the mud."

A colored youth "cleaned out" a parcel of boys who pitched into him at New Lisbon, Ohio, the other day, and exclaimed: "Bress de Lord, dis nigger did not come all de way from Richmond for nothing!"

cases will come on in the week, or perhaps next week, as there are several long winded cases, which were continued from last term. The Court room was crowded all the morning.

STATE ITEMS.
Two monkeys presented to the State Fair died in Raleigh Saturday night.
An eight year old boy of Raleigh won the Heck Stallion "Sagamore" at the State Fair Lottery.
Friend Duffy of the Greensboro Patriot got a lot of tinware as his prize at the Fair Lottery last week.
The News says that remarkably good order was kept in Raleigh during Fair week, and that the police discharged their duty well.
Phil Lane, col., has been arrested on a charge of highway robbery, committed near Raleigh and has been sent to jail to await his trial at the next term of Wake Superior Court.
The Seaboard and Roanoke and the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad transported over their respective roads fifty car loads of freight for the State Fair, free of charge, as we learn from the News.
The News says that our old friend, that universally popular Railroad man, Col. George Morrison, of the C. C. R.
R., was in Raleigh last week, but not as much on R. R. business as something else. Madame Rumor having it that his eye is steadily fixed on one of Richmond's fairest daughters.
The Raleigh News says:—The paintings executed by Miss VanBokkelen of Wilmington, on exhibition in Floral Hall during Fair week, attracted unusual attention, and received many handsome compliments from competent judges. They were admirably executed and were pronounced exquisite by every one who saw them.
The Raleigh News says: At the meeting of the Press Association of this city, last Thursday evening, the Executive Committee were authorized to appoint delegates to the meeting of the General Press Association, which assembles in St. Louis on the 26th of November. The appointments will be announced in a few days.
Says the Asheville Express of the 16th instant:—We are informed by a bachelor friend who is "posted," that some twenty years ago, a woman near the mouth of Laurel, in Madison county, was the fortunate mother of five babies in one year—three boys in January, and two girls in December. And our informant says it was not a good year for babies either.
The Raleigh News is requested to state that on this (Tuesday) evening the orphans in Oxford will give a musical and literary entertainment to raise funds for the purchase of blankets for the winter. On Wednesday evening the ladies of the Episcopal Church will give a Cantata for the benefit of their Church.
The Asylum lends them the use of its chapel, but has no interest in the Cantata.
The Statesville Intelligencer of Saturday says:—We regret to learn as we go to press that the cause of the detention of the cars not reaching Salisbury on time yesterday, was that they were bringing the Hon. Nathaniel Boyden home, and such was his extreme illness, they were compelled to come slowly. From a gentleman who came up in a buggy we learn that at the time of his departure from Salisbury, they had not attempted to remove Mr. B. from the cars.
The father of balloons died in France the other day. Remorse killed him.
Plaster casts of Mrs O'Leary's cow sold at a premium at the fire anniversary in Chicago.
A Chicago paper wants Wilkie Collins to read "Very Hard Cash." It's something that Americans know but little about nowadays.
The students of Bowdoin College have been requested to provide themselves with uniforms. They are disposed to feel blue over it.
"Salts of demonia" was recently called for at a country store in western Massachusetts. The apothecary filled the bill with a pint of New England rum.
A sharp boy in Cincinnati was sent after kerosene, but he spent the money; filled the can with water, but his father went over and pounded the grocer for swindling him.
A Toledo baker killed a very sick hog the other day and sent it to market to keep it from dying on his hands.
That man is going to be very rich the first thing you know.
The Chinese temples in San Francisco are not as popular objects of curiosity with the Eastern tourists as they were previous to the discovery that the sacred buildings are frequently used by the Chinese to secrete smallpox patients.
The streets of London have been provided with patent lamps, which, by a peculiar reflecting apparatus, appear to have three flames, instead of one. This is an improvement on "seeing double." A boy eight years old, in one of our public schools, having been told that a reptile "is an animal that creeps," on being asked to name one, on examination, died, promptly and triumphantly replied, "A baby."
